VLM Completes Preliminary Design Concepts and Layouts for New Bali Medical and Vitality Centres

Dr Robby Thoeng, Visionary and Founder of Vital Life Management's (VLM's) Integrated Medical Vitality Concept, announced today, "VLM has just completed the new design concepts for some exciting new Health Facilities to be constructed in Bali."

This week VLM's Healthcare Architects based in Jakarta, have just released the initial design concepts for new Healthcare facilities that dClinic will own and for which it will also provide the dClinic platform.

"These are firstly the Sanur One Day Hospital Project", said Doctor Robby Thoeng. "Sanur One Day Clinic (SODC) is a break-through model in healthcare facility concept, changing the landscape of healthcare business by offering advanced efficiency and effectiveness with the presence of world class medical treatment in only one day."

Sanur One Day Clinic will be strategically located on 9619 m2 of land at one of the most developed areas of Sanur. SODC will become the new game changer in healthcare concept in the Bali region and the rest of Indonesia.

Modern, purpose designed Architecture and Interior Design will provide a warm friendly non-clinical atmosphere.

In addition to the Sanur facility there is also a second facility called Kerobokan Vitality Centre. Kerobokan will offer a unique medical concept in wellness, wellbeing, antiaging and beauty in an oasis of peace and tranquillity by combining Indonesian architecture and contemporary style to accommodate the most demanding of clients.

Modern designed medical facilities to perform aesthetic surgery, invasive gynaecological rejuvenation, urogynaecology, one day care services, physical rehab and mental rehab will be among the services offered.

Kerobokan Vitality Centre is ideally located on the main road in Kerobokan on 3200 m2 of prime freehold land, in close proximity to Canggu and Tannah Lot, two of most popular areas in Bali for new tourism developments.

Once the preliminary design concepts and layout are finalised, VLM will be able to commission the next level of construction drawings.

Doctor Robby Thoeng went on to say, “VLM is very excited with the prospect of commissioning and operating a comprehensive range of specialty vitality and wellness services at these new Bali Healthcare facilities, that will utilise the advanced dClinic Platform and digital medical technologies to provide the best customer experience.”
